Medoff, N. J., & Kaye, B. (2016). Electronic media: then, now, and later. Taylor & Francis.

COURSE DESCRIPTION & OBJECTIVES

Global media industries and platforms for distributing media content have undergone profound changes since the start of this decade, let alone the start of this century. Although many of these changes can be attributed to emerging digital media, traditional/legacy outlets still greatly inform today's media landscape. However, this relationship between so-called "old" and "new" media is not without historical precedent – older media rarely disappear entirely in the face of advancements in new media; the former often greatly influences the revenue models, structure, and use of the latter. The aim of this course is to unpack the exact nature of this old/new media relationship and its impact(s) on society, with a particular emphasis on the history of technological innovations and the media as an economic enterprise. By the end of this course, students will have developed a more critical eye as media consumers themselves when thinking about the history, platforms, practitioners, content, and socio-cultural factors that make up the media as we know it today. In addition, the programmatic/management aspects of the media industry will be touched upon, such that students will have the foundation necessary to enroll in COMM 3355 by the end of the semester.

Mass Communications Program Learning Outcomes

- Students will demonstrate an understanding of the history and role of professionals and institutions in shaping communications. (ACEJMC Student Learning Outcome #2)

ACEJMC Professional Values and Competencies: As a unit seeking accreditation from the Accrediting Council on Education in Journalism and Mass Communications (ACEJMC), the Department of Mass Communications is committed to preparing students with the requisite knowledge and skills to be successful in the media and communications industries after graduation. The Department has adopted as its degree program learning outcomes ACEJMC's 12

A NOTE ON THE HYBRID FORMAT

Unless otherwise specified in the course schedule or via email/CourseDen, our allotted Tue/Thu class time will be used as such:

- On Tuesdays, students will be responsible for watching YouTube video lectures posted on CourseDen that same day. Therefore, we will not have in-class meetings on Tuesday unless otherwise specified.

- On Thursdays, we will hold our regular class meeting from 12:30 – 1:45 p.m. in Humanities 312. Typically, these class meetings will be reserved for activities, class discussion, reviewing important assignment/project directions, and administering quizzes/exams. By Thursday's class, it is assumed that you have already watched Tuesday's lecture and read any assigned reading(s) for the week, so please ensure that you come prepared to class in accordance with the course schedule listed at the end of this document.

Please note that the typical schedule outlined above is entirely subject to change! As a result, students should always regularly check their UWG email and CourseDen for any announcements concerning a change in the usual class format outlined here or within the course schedule.

EVALUATION

- Syllabus Quiz	50 points
- Participation/Attendance	250 points
- Exams	300 points
- Annotated Bibliography	150 points
- Electronic Media Analysis	250 points

1000 points

GRADING SCALE

A	90 – 100%
B	80 – 89%
C	70 – 79%
D	69 – 60%
F	59% or below

SYLLABUS QUIZ (5%)

To ensure students have read and comprehended important aspects of the syllabus, a quiz will be administered in class on the date specified in the course schedule. The quiz itself will be comprised of 20 multiple choice and true/false questions. To prepare for the quiz, it is highly recommended that you read this syllabus in its entirety.

PARTICIPATION/ATTENDANCE (25%)

Students are expected to be attentive and active participants during class time. Therefore, participation/attendance during class will count towards your final grade. Attendance to class alone is not sufficient to receive these points for each class period. Therefore, the instructor reserves the right to deduct some or all of these points in the event students are inattentive, unprepared for class, more than 15 minutes late, or are otherwise not active members of class.

Because I do understand that life happens, students will be granted one excused absence for the semester that they can use for any reason. I will also grant excused absences in the case of university athletics commitments, illness, death in the family, or other emergency/extenuating circumstances, but only if I am informed in advance² and provided with documented proof of the extenuating circumstances in question.

EXAMS (30%)

During the semester, three closed-book exams will be administered in class on the dates listed within the course schedule. Each exam is non-cumulative and will cover material from lectures and assigned textbook chapters directly preceding the exam date. Study guides will be provided on CourseDen no later than one week before the exam date. Each exam will contain 33 questions and be comprised of multiple choice, true/false, and short answer questions.

² Or as close to advance as is possible in the case of a legitimate emergency.

ANNOTATED BIBLIOGRAPHY (15%)

In preparation for the final semester paper (i.e. the Electronic Media Analysis), students will be responsible for submitting an annotated bibliography made up of a minimum of 10 scholarly sources that will be utilized in their final papers, not counting any of the chapters from the Medoff & Kaye textbook or other readings/material assigned throughout the semester. In short, you will be expected to list each a citation for each source in APA format, followed by a paragraph-length summary of the source and its relevance to your upcoming final paper. More detailed instructions on this assignment will be given at the appropriate time.

ELECTRONIC MEDIA ANALYSIS (25%)

As the final paper/project for the semester, students will be asked to write an 8 – 10-page (double-spaced) paper on a single medium discussed during the semester and provide an original argument using the 10 (or more) scholarly sources included in the annotated bibliography. Ideally, these papers will be an opportunity to demonstrate the kind of historical, economic, and/or societal knowledge concerning electronic media covered throughout the semester, as well as going beyond what was simply already covered in class. More details and a grading rubric for this paper will be provided closer to the due date listed in the course schedule.

CLASS POLICIES

1. First and foremost, any time spent together in class should maintain an environment conducive to learning and mutual respect. I am confident that we will be able to maintain this positive learning environment throughout the semester, but I reserve the right to dismiss anyone that is actively disrespectful or disruptive during class time.
2. As a reminder, please note that attendance to class does count towards your final grade (read ‘Participation/Attendance’ section for full details). In addition, I would respectfully ask that students avoid arriving excessively late to class or repeatedly enter/exit the classroom during our allotted time, so as to avoid being disruptive to others.
3. Concerning technology in class, I am perfectly fine with students taking notes on laptops/tablets and it is likely that some technology use will be an active part of class time this semester. That being said, please ensure that your mobile phones are turned off or set to silent before you enter the classroom. Furthermore, I reserve the right to dock Participation/Attendance points in the event I see technology use in the classroom that is not relevant to our course or poses a disruption to others (e.g. texting, checking social media, watching/listening to non-class related content, etc.).
4. As a general rule, please ensure that you follow all publicly posted classroom rules concerning food/drink in class. Small snacks and drinks with closable containers are fine as long as the classroom allows food/drink. Beyond that, I would respectfully request that you not bring in copious amounts of food into class and reserve mealtimes for outside of class.

LATE WORK

Any assignment submitted late will receive a 20% late deduction per day late. Outside of documented emergencies like a serious illness, death in the family, etc., I will adhere to the policy outlined here. If you have special circumstances, please contact me as soon as you are able to.

ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

As per university and department policy, all forms of plagiarism, cheating, and academic misconduct are not tolerated. Depending on the severity of the violation, instances of academic misconduct may be dealt with at a departmental and/or university level. At minimum, the first violation of academic honesty/integrity in this class will result in an automatic zero on the assignment(s) in question and a full letter grade deduction at the end of the semester. Additional violations beyond this first case will result in additional penalties depending on the severity of the violation, up to and including automatic failure in the course. For more information about grounds for academic misconduct violations and academic integrity, please consult the Student Handbook and Code of Conduct.

SUBMISSION OF ASSIGNMENTS/GRADES:

All assignments or exams must be completed and submitted on the day they are due according to the course schedule and assignment description. Please note that I will try to give you feedback as quickly as possible, but I too can get busy as the semester progresses.

All grades will be posted via CourseDen. Legally I cannot send you final grades via email, so any specific grade inquires must be addressed one-on-one during in-person or virtual office hours.

ACADEMIC SUPPORT

Accessibility Services: Students with a documented disability may work with UWG Accessibility Services to receive essential services specific to their disability. All entitlements to accommodations are based on documentation and USG Board of Regents standards. If a student needs course adaptations or accommodations because of a disability or chronic illness, or if he/she needs to make special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, the student should notify his/her instructor in writing and provide a copy of his/her Student Accommodations Report (SAR), which is available only from Accessibility Services. Faculty cannot offer accommodations without timely receipt of the SAR; further, no retroactive accommodations will be given. For more information, please contact Accessibility Services.

Center for Academic Success: The Center for Academic Success provides services, programs, and opportunities to help all undergraduate students succeed academically. For more information, contact them: 678-839-6280 or cas@westga.edu

University Writing Center: The University Writing Center assists students with all areas of the writing process. For more information, contact them: 678-839-6513 or writing@westga.edu

ONLINE COURSES

UWG takes students' privacy concerns seriously: technology-enhanced and partially and fully online courses use sites and entities beyond UWG and students have the right to know the privacy policies of these entities. For more information on privacy and accessibility for the most commonly used sites, as well as technology requirements visit the UWG Online site.

Students enrolled in online courses can find answers to many of their questions in the Online/Off-Campus Student Guide.

If a student is experiencing distress and needs help, please see the resources available at the UWG Cares site. Online counseling is also available for online students.

HONOR CODE

At the University of West Georgia, we believe that academic and personal integrity are based upon honesty, trust, fairness, respect, and responsibility. Students at West Georgia assume responsibility for upholding the honor code. West Georgia students pledge to refrain from engaging in acts that do not maintain academic and personal integrity. These include, but are not limited to, plagiarism, cheating, fabrication, aid of academic dishonesty, lying, bribery or threats, and stealing.

The University of West Georgia maintains and monitors a confidential Academic Dishonesty Tracking System. This database collects and reports patterns of repeated student violations across all the Colleges, the Ingram Library, and the School of Nursing. Each incidence of academic dishonesty is subject to review and consideration by the instructor and is subject to a range of academic penalties including, but not limited to, failing the assignment and/or failing the course. Student conduct sanctions range from verbal warning to suspension or expulsion depending on the magnitude of the offense and/or number of offenses. The incident becomes part of the student's conduct record at UWG.

Additionally, the student is responsible for safeguarding his/her computer account. The student's account and network connection are for his/her individual use. A computer account is to be used only by the person to whom it has been issued. The student is responsible for all actions originating through his/her account or network connection. Students must not impersonate others or misrepresent or conceal their identities in electronic messages and actions. For more information on the University of West Georgia Honor Code, please see the Student Handbook.

UWG EMAIL POLICY

University of West Georgia students are provided a MyUWG e-mail account. The University considers this account to be an official means of communication between the University and the student. The purpose of the official use of the student e-mail account is to provide an effective means of communicating important university related information to UWG students in a timely manner. It is the student's responsibility to check his or her email.

CREDIT HOUR POLICY

The University of West Georgia grants one semester hour of credit for work equivalent to a minimum of one hour (50 minutes) of in-class or other direct faculty instruction AND two hours of student work outside of class per week for approximately fifteen weeks. For each course, the course syllabus will document the amount of in-class (or other direct faculty instruction) and out-of-class work required to earn the credit hour(s) assigned to the course. Out-of-class work will include all forms of credit-bearing activity, including but not limited to assignments, readings, observations, and musical practice. Where available, the university grants academic credit for students who verify via competency-based testing, that they have accomplished the learning outcomes associated with a course that would normally meet the requirements outlined above (e.g. AP credit, CLEP, and departmental exams).

HB 280 (Campus Carry)
